The New Ensign

No. 157 September 2022

This publication is for private circulation only

Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Readers,

The Crisis in Ukraine Is Not About Ukraine. Its About Germany!!

The Ukrainian crisis has nothing to do with Ukraine. It's about Germany and, in particular, a pipeline that connects Germany to Russia called Nord Stream 2. Except for the spin off of creating a greater Israel in the Ukraine.

London and Washington sees the pipeline as a threat to its primacy in Europe and has tried to sabotage the project at every turn. Even so, Nord Stream has pushed ahead and is now fully-operational and ready-to-go. Once German regulators provide the final certification, the gas deliveries will begin. German homeowners and businesses will have a reliable source of clean and inexpensive energy while Russia will see a significant boost to their gas revenues. It's a win-win situation for both parties.

The US Foreign Policy establishment is not happy about these developments. They don't want Germany to become more dependent on Russian gas because commerce builds trust and trust leads to the expansion of trade. As relations grow warmer, more trade barriers are lifted, regulations are eased, travel and tourism increase, and a new security architecture evolves.

In a world where Germany and Russia are friends and trading partners, there is no need for US military bases, no need for expensive US-made weapons and missile systems, and no need for NATO.

There's also no need to transact energy deals in US Dollars or to stockpile US Treasuries to balance accounts. Transactions between business partners can be conducted in their own currencies which is bound to precipitate a sharp decline in the value of the dollar and a dramatic shift in economic power.

This is why the Biden administration opposes Nord Stream. It's not just a pipeline, it's a window into the future; a future in which Europe and Asia are drawn closer together into a massive free trade zone that increases their mutual power and prosperity while leaving the US on the outside looking in. Babylon is crumbling. Praise Yahweh!!

Editors (editor@newensign.com)

This magazine is for private subscription only and is not in any way connected to The Ensign Message Magazine.

Contents

The Enmity, Part 6: The Clash of the Bloodlines By Pastor Eli James

Was There Race-Mixing in the Garden? – Or, Eli Just Won't Leave It Alone!)

Introduction to Part 6

Editor's Note: Eli's website been attacked on a number of occasions - so not all parts of this series of articles on The Enmity are not all available at present which is the reason for starting at part 6

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I HAVE DECIDED TO PULL A "STAR WARS" trick and publish Part 6 of "The Enmity" before Parts 2 through 5. My plan was to use recent archeological findings and present them as a case for re-examining the Book of Genesis, Chapters 1 – 4.

The point of all of this is to demonstrate a consistency between natural history and biblical history. I believe that Yahweh has judged this planet on two previous occasions, once in the year 10,500 B.C. and once at Noah's Flood. He has judged this planet twice already for the sin of race-mixing and He is getting ready to do so for a third and final time.

Recent events, however, have persuaded me that I need to go directly from Part 1 to Part 6. The reason for this is that my advocacy of the Two-Seedline position has attracted a number of hostile responses; and I do not want to let these challenges go unanswered.

I fear there is a clash developing between the Seedline and Anti-Seedline camps, and I do not wish this to get out of hand. The tenor of most the Seedline critics is such that Seedliners are either stupid, crazy or dishonest to teach what we do. They think that we are distorting Scripture into an impossible interpretation.

So, let me state the Two-Seedline position very clearly and succinctly so that there is no mistake about what we are teaching:

Two-Seedline teaches that there are two distinct family trees traceable from Genesis 3:15. In that verse Yahweh speaks directly to nachash, the "Serpent" of the Garden, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, between thy seed and her seed." In The Enmity, Part 1, I detailed the Scriptural listings of these two family trees. One is the Tree of Seth; the other is the Tree of Cain.

This article can be accessed at my website in the Archives Section.

These two Family Trees are the Seedline of the Adamites and the Seedline of the Canaanites. These two seedlines have been at war with each other since Yahweh made His declaration in Gen. 3:15 and as a direct result of Eve's sin.

The descendants of Cain are known as the Canaanites. These Canaanites were later joined by the Edomites so that Canaanites and Edomites are synonymous terms after their merger. The descendants of Adam later came to be symbolized by the Israelites because all of the Covenants God made to Abraham were later restated to Israel exclusively. Jacob/Israel and Esau/Edom were twin brothers, just like Cain and Abel.

Edom had an intense, murderous hatred for his brother Jacob, just as Cain had for Abel, but Jacob's mother, Rebekah, saw to it that Esau could not harm his brother. Today, the descendants of the Israelites are known as the Anglo-Saxon, Celtic and Caucasian peoples. The descendants of Esau are today known as Jews.
In general terms, the flow of descent is as follows:

The Seed of Seth................... The Seed of Cain
Enos.............................Tubal, Jubal, Tubal-Cain
Noah........................Canaanites, including giants
Shem...........................Post-Diluvian Canaanites
Abraham.....................................Hittites, etc.

Jacob/Israel............................…… Esau/Edom

Esau and His Twin Brother Jacob

Although Esau was the twin brother of Jacob, he married into the line of Canaanites. His family tree offspring were henceforth known as Edomites. Thus, Edomites are NOT Shemites, nor are they Israelites.

Anglo-Saxons — Jews

"Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with diverse seeds: lest the fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard, be defiled. (Deut. 22:9)

If this commandment applies to the seed of plants and animals, how much more does it apply to Adamite seed? The fact is that the seedline of Seth is a pure-blooded, undiluted, unadulterated family tree from Yahweh to Yahshua, as recorded in Luke, Chapter 3.

The White (Adamite) peoples of this planet are all related to this tree. The bloodline of Cain is a mixed ("defiled") race from Cain down to the present. The Jews are no exception to this rule as the Jews are NOT a pure race but a MIXED BREED who also practice a particular religion.

This religion, Judaism, IS NOT the same religion that was practiced by the Hebrews and the Israelites. Their religion is based on the Talmud, which is the rabbinical interpretations of Scripture, not Scripture itself. Despite Jewish claims of Shemitic descent, their religion, contrary to Yahweh's frequent exhortations for Israel to remain separate, preaches race-mixing as a virtue (especially for Adamites) and it has done so since the days of Cain.

Although Genesis 3:15 clearly talks about two "seeds," some Anti-Seedliners dispute the use of the word 'seedline' as a synonym for 'seed.' But the verse clearly predicts the enmity between these two seeds. Two-Seedline doctrine declares that these seeds are two Family Trees; and the Enmity that exists between them is still functioning in the world today.

Both Cain and Abel had Eve as their mother. The crucial matter of disputation is whether or not Adam fathered Cain. Two-Seedline teaches that Cain and Abel were half-brothers, having had different fathers. Specifically, Abel was fathered by Adam; but Cain was sired by Nachash, the "Serpent." The Anti-Seedliners maintain that it is impossible to interpret Scripture as teaching the two father scenario.

This is the gist of the dispute; and I am going to do my best to explain why we Two-Seedliners teach what we do. The reason why I have decided to publish Part 6 before the others is in the interest of expediting the dialogue between the two viewpoints.

At the moment, within Christian Identity, this issue threatens to create a schism. This is the last thing I would want to see happen. I love my Adamite Christian brethren, no mater what their position is on any religious issues. At the same time, I will not compromise what I believe to be the truth. In spite of the Anti-Seedliners' incredulity and scorn, there is no doubt in my mind that Two-Seedline is the true story of the Bible.

I would ask that any Anti-Seedliner please continue reading because what I have to say is very serious. I beg your indulgence because this is not a trivial matter and the case against Two-Seedline is not as solid as most sceptics presume.

Charles A. Weisman, an Anti-Seedliner, in his book entitled What About the Seedline Doctrine?, explains it this way: This book examines a rather popular but controversial teaching commonly called the "seedline doctrine." It should more correctly be called the "Cain-Satanic Seedline doctrine." The basic concept of the seedline, or blood descent, is actually very prevalent within Scripture.

The Bible places great importance on such words as children, son, father, seed and generation. It traces genealogies, records ancestry, and follows tribal lineage. The Bible as we know it would not even exist without the concept of seedline. In fact, Christianity could not legitimately exist without the concept of seedline.

The Messiah, the Redeemer of Israel, was to come from a specific seedline, and if Jesus was not of this seedline, he is not the Messiah. Thus his seedline is meticulously recorded in the Gospels. (p. 2)

Weisman sounds almost like a Two-Seedliner! So, what's the problem?

The real stumbling block is Genesis 4:1, which says, "Adam knew his wife Eve; and she conceived and bare Cain." The Anti-Seedliners maintain that this passage is cut and dried – i.e., there exists no way to inject a third party, Nachash, into this relationship. These skeptics insist that Eve could not possibly have conceived by anyone other than Adam.

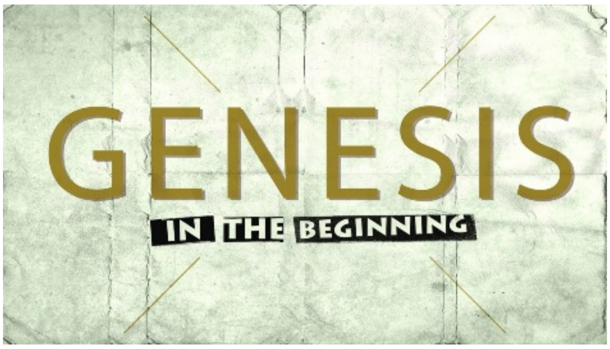

Two-Seedliners, on the other hand, maintain that the original Hebrew script leaves plenty of room for another interpretation. In addition, there is a wealth of extra-biblical information and commentary which establishes Two-Seedline as a legitimate interpretation of Genesis 3:15 and Genesis 4:1. (A thorough analysis of Genesis, Chapter 4, will be reserved for Part 7 of this series.)

The Plan of the 6-Part Series. Here Is the Overall Plan:

The Enmity, Part 1: The Two Bloodlines.
The Enmity, Part 2: The Fall of Atlantis
The Enmity, Part 3: The Earth Recovers
The Enmity, Part 4: Genesis 1 in the Light of Pre-History
The Enmity, Part 5: Adamites Versus non-Adamites
The Enmity, Part 6: The Clash of the Bloodlines
The Enmity, Part 7: Yahshua and the Two Bloodlines

If you are unfamiliar with the issue of the two Family Trees outlined above, I suggest that you read The Enmity, Part 1 first and then come back to this one, Part 6.

Major Objections to the Two-Seedline Doctrine
Numerous Anti-Seedliners, such as Ted Weiland, Ric Niemela, Stephen E. Jones, Jack Mohr, and others, have stated that the trees in the Garden of Eden can only be literal, wooden trees and that the fruit spoken of can be only literal fruit, such as apples and oranges.

Although they concede that the word 'apple' is not mentioned in Genesis 2-4, they insist that either 1.) some sort of literal fruit is meant or 2.) the "evil fruit" is simply a general reference to disobedience. No other interpretation is possible or credible.

First, let me say that I have much respect for each of these gentlemen. Ted Weiland is the author of the book, God's Covenant People, Yesterday, Today and Forever. This book is an Identity classic, a must read for every Christian Identity student. It is a great introduction to Identity, especially for the new seeker.

Ric Niemela is a tireless Identity spokesman and defender, having issued numerous tracts and letters in defence of Christian Identity. In fact, our website, contains his article, "The Tares Have Risen Above the Wheat."

It is an excellent discussion of Matthew, Chapter 13 and how the Jews are the tares (weeds) of that parable. The Parable of the Wheat and the Tares is explained by Niemela in exceptional detail from the Identity perspective.

Stephen E. Jones is the author of an outright masterpiece entitled, The Secrets of Time. That book lays out Yahweh's timetable of Law and prophecy, showing exactly how Israel has failed to keep to His Law and seasons. The Secrets of Time lays out God's Plan, from beginning to end, with scholarly precision.

Jack Mohr I considered to be a personal friend. He and I corresponded frequently over the years; and I spoke to him by phone a few days before he died in July of 2003. He was a regular speaker at the annual Christian Patriots Defence League Conferences which went from 1978 to about 1986.

Jack Mohr, a Korean War veteran and arch anti-communist, was always the headline speaker. After his speeches, he would hold court and answer questions from those who remained. He was engaging, approachable and made himself available to all who had questions. He delighted in sharing his Identity knowledge.

You can access one of his anti-Zionist exposures HERE

What I am getting at here is that I respect the work of all of these men. At the same time, I strongly disagree with their Anti-Seedline positions and statements. Lately, the rhetoric of the dispute has become rancorous, even descending to the level of name-calling by both sides. I would like to diffuse this situation; but the anti-seedliners need to suspend what I perceive to be their "I've heard it all before" attitude and really listen to what we have to say, because the jury is still out on this issue, and there is real scholarship on the other side.

To be Continued OS16006

Old Testament "Word for Word" Exodus Part 8 Translation by Stephen Howard Anderson

Chapter 12

The Passover to Yahweh

1. And spoke Yahweh to Mosheh and Aharon in the land of Mits'rayim, saying,

2. "This month shall be to you the beginning 7218 of months 2320: it shall be the first month of the year to you.

3. Speak you to all the congregation of Yis'rael. saying, 'In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb 7716, according to the house of their forefathers, a lamb for a household:

4. and if the household is too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next to his house take it according to the number of people; every man according to his eating shall make your count for the lamb.

5. Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: you shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats,

6. and you shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Yis'rael shall kill it in the evening.

7. And they shall take of the blood 1818, and strike it on the two side posts and on the upper door post of the houses, in which they shall eat it.

8. And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast 6748 with fire, and matstsoth 4682; and with bitter herbs 4844 they shall eat it.

9. Do not eat it raw, nor sodden at all with water, but roast with fire; its head, and its legs, with the inner organs 7130 of it;

10. You shall let nothing of it remain until morning; and that which remains until morning you shall burn with fire.

11. And this way you shall eat it; with your loins 4975 girded 2296, your sandals on your feet, and your staff 4731 in your hand; and you shall eat it in haste 2649: it is the Passover 6453 to Yahweh.

12. Because I will pass through the land of Mits'rayim this night, and will smite all the firstborn in the land of Mits'rayim, both adam and beast; and against all the elohiym 430 of Mits'rayim I will execute 6213 judgement 8201: I am Yahweh.

13. And the blood shall be to you for a sign 226 on the houses where you are: and when I see the blood, I will pass 6452 over 5921 you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy 4889 you, when I smite 5221 the land of Mits'rayim.

14. And this day shall be for a memorial 2146; and you shall keep it as a feast to Yahweh throughout your generations; you shall keep it a feast by an ordinance 2708 forever.

15. Seven days you shall eat matstsoth; even the first day you shall put away leaven 7603 from your houses: because whosoever eats chamets 2557 from the first day until the seventh day, that person shall be cut off 3772 from Yis'rael.

16. And in the first day there shall be a holy 6944 convocation 4744, and in the seventh day there shall be a holy convocation to you; no manner of work shall be done in them, except that which every man must eat, that only may be done by you.

17. And you shall observe the Feast of Matstsoth; for in this same day I have brought your hosts 6635 out of the land of Mits'rayim: therefore you shall observe 8104 this day in your posterity by an ordinance forever.

18. In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening 6153, you shall eat matstsoth, until the twenty-first day of the month at evening.

19. Seven days there shall be no leaven found in your houses: because whoever eats that which is leavened, that person shall be cut off from the congregation of Yis'rael, whether he is an alien, or born in the land.

20. You shall eat no chemetseth 2557; in all your habitations you shall eat matstsoth.'"

21. Then called Mosheh for all the elders of Yis'rael, and said to them, "Draw out and take a lamb according to your clans 4940, and kill the Passover.

Hyssop

22. And you shall take a bunch of hyssop 231, and dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel and the two side posts with the blood that is in the basin; and none of you shall go out of the door of his house until the morning.

23. Because Yahweh will pass through to smite the Mits'rayim; and when He sees the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side posts, Yahweh will pass over the door, and will not give permission 5414 to the destroyer 7843 to come into your houses to smite you.

24. And you shall observe this thing as an ordinance to you and your sons forever.

25. And it shall be, when you have come to the land which Yahweh shall give you, according to as He has promised, that you shall keep this service 5656.

26. And it shall be, when your children shall say to you, 'What do you mean by this service?'

27. that you shall say, 'It is the sacrifice of the Passover to Yahweh, who passed over the houses of the children of Yis'rael in Mits'rayim, and He delivered 5337 our households.'" And the people bowed the head 6915 and prostrated themselves 7812.

28. And went away the children of Yis'rael, and did as had commanded Yahweh Mosheh and Aharon, so did they.

29. And it came to be, at midnight smote Yahweh all the firstborn in the land of Mits'rayim, from the firstborn of Par'oh that sat on his throne, to the firstborn of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the firstborn of beasts.

30. And rose up Par'oh in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Mits'rayim; and there was a great cry in Mits'rayim; because there was not a house where there was not one dead.

31. And called he for Mosheh and Aharon by night, and said, "Rise up, and go forth from among my people, both you, and the children of Yis'rael; and go, serve Yahweh as you have said.

32. Also take your flocks and your herds, as you have said, and be gone; and bless me also."

33. And the Mits'rayim were urgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; because they said, "We are all dead men."

34. And took the people their dough before it was leavened, their kneading troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders.

35. And did the children of Yis'rael according to the word of Mosheh; and they asked of the Mits'rayim jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and clothing:

36. And gave Yahweh the people favor in the eyes of the Mits'rayim, so that they gave to them what they requested. And they plundered 5337 the Mits'rayim.

37. And journeyed the children of Yis'rael from Rameses to Sukothah, about six hundred thousand on foot that were men, besides children.

38. And mongrel peoples 6154 of great number 7227 went up also with them; and flocks and herds, and much livestock.

39. And baked they cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Mits'rayim, because it was matstsoth; because they were thrust out from Mits'rayim, and could not tarry, and they had not prepared any food for themselves.

40. Now the sojourning of the children of Yis'rael, who dwelt in Mits'rayim, was four hundred and thirty years.

41. And it came to be at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the same day it came to be, that all the armies 6635 of Yahweh went out from the land of Mits'rayim.

42. It is a night very much to be observed to Yahweh, for bringing them out from the land of Mits'rayim: this is that night of Yahweh to be observed by all the children of Yis'rael in their posterity 1755.

43. And said Yahweh to Mosheh and Aharon, "This is the ordinance 2708 of the Passover: There shall no son 1121 of a racial alien 5236 eat of it:

44. But any man's slave that is bought for money, when you have circumcised him, then he shall eat of it.

45. A sojourner 8453 and a hired servant 7916 shall not eat of it.

46. In one house shall it be eaten; you shall not carry forth any of the flesh abroad out of the house: [and you shall not break a bone of it].

47. And all the congregation of Yis'rael shall keep it.

48. And when a sojourner 1616 shall sojourn 1481 with you, and would keep the Passover to Yahweh, let all his males be circumcised 4135, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in 249 the land: because no possessor of a foreskin 6189 shall eat of it.

49. One torah 8451 shall be to him that is home born, and unto the sojourner that sojourns among you."

50. Thus did all the children of Yis'rael; as commanded Yahweh Mosheh and Aharon, so did they.

51. And it came to be on the same day, that brought Yahweh the children of Yis'rael out of the land of Mits'rayim by their armies 6635.

Chapter 12 Notes

This is the beginning of the Passover, with the marking of the doorposts and lintels with the blood of the lamb that is the sacrifice to Yahweh. Yahshua Messiah was the final Passover Lamb, and now we celebrate the sacrifice He made for us.

We remember the original Passover, and remember the Final Sacrifice on this day at twilight. What a blessing! Through Mosheh, Yahweh had warned Par'oh of what was coming, and His word was fulfilled completely. All the firstborn were slain, both of adam, and their non-adamic servants.

The Mits'rayim urged them to leave, and gave them jewelry as Yahweh had said. On the journey out, they ate matstsoth, because there was no time to add leaven, as Yahweh had said. This established the perpetual days of Passover, and seven days of the Feast of Matstsoth, which we still observe today in the Messianic style.

The Messiah fulfilled all sacrifice for sin, and now we have a Feast of Remembrance, in thankfulness and joy.

The mongrel peoples were comprised of non-adamic "hangers on" and slaves. They would be a problem to Yis'rael later on. The word for "mongrel" (Strong's Concordance 6154) is ereb, meaning dusky, from which arab is derived. Arabia is the land of "dusky people".

There is a clear distinction between Yis'rael and these people. Sojourners that were not of Yis'rael were not to eat of the Passover in verse 45, but these were short-term visitors, and the word used is 8453 tosach, which is different from 1616 ger used in verse 48.

A ger can be an Israelite from another land that is visiting his family, and generally implies adamic seedline, as Yis'rael were geriym (sojourners) in Mits'rayim, and they definitely were of pure adamic seedline.

Verses 1-13 - Lev. 23:5; Num. 9:1-5; 28:16; Deut. 16:1,2;

Verses 14-20 - Ex. 23:15; 34:18; Lev. 23:6-8; Num. 28:17-25; Deut. 16:3-8;

Verse 23 – Heb. 11:28;

Verse 29 - Ex. 4:22-32; Yashar (Jasher) 80:43.

Verses 35, 36 – Ex. 3:21,22;

Verse 36 - Yashar 80:61;

Verse 38 - Yasher 81:2;

Verse 40 - Gen. 15:13; Gal. 3:17;

Verse 46, "not break a bone of it" is definitely a Messianic verse, as no bone was broken of Yahshua Messiah, as seen in John 19:36. Num. 9:12.

This entire chapter sets precedent for the future concerning Yis'rael, as the two major observances are firmly established here.

To be Continued

The Fall and Rise of Abraham's House (Part 18)
By
Adam de Witt

SOME ARGUE THAT KING ALFRED BROUGHT IN GOD'S LAWS, but case law soon overlaid all this and with the invasion of William the 'Over-runner' (agent of the Holy Roman Empire) catholic law came into Britain. Williams job was to bring Britain into the fold. This further removed King Alfred's law to a dim memory. The Anglican Church did not replace catholic law with Bible Law, but only with Anglican law. Proof of this is in the pudding.

Naboth's Vineyard

The Boers (Suid Afrika) were Christian. Ideally this means they are loyal underlings of King Jesus. If the British were loyal underlings to King Jesus, then why would Britain need to take Suid Afrika? After all, the Boers would have already yielded a part of the Earth to King Jesus. And, King Jesus' Law also says that we are not to Covet anything that is our neighbours! Yet this was clearly a similar case to king Ahab coveting Naboth's vineyard - and being willing to kill to take it.

But the British did not see the Boers as loyal underlings of the queen, Because the queen served a different Jesus, and a different gospel. Her Jesus was only a poor likeness made by the Anglican Church. This 'other Jesus' was subject to Anglican law.

Christians are so in love with the words 'Christian' or 'divine' that when a document is spawned by the minds of 'loyal underlings of Church law,' these Christians rise up to defend these regulatory engraven images. But these literary 'images' or 'likeness' to God's Bible Laws resemble God's law only insomuch that they are a list of do's and don'ts, and use the words Christian, divine, or other smokescreen words to beguile us.

As long as Christians manifest church law, parliamentary law or democracy, the meaning of life will never be made clear. Thus, what we now see is, that the mind serves the flesh; rather than the flesh being a tool to serve the mind. The material world was created to serve God and not the other way around.

In the last year-hundred we have seen the church age fall to the Edomite age, thank God. Because this is when Esau throws off Jacob's yoke. But it is only for a short while. When Esau has laid waste all trust in Church law, then the 'slate is wiped clean' for God's Bible Laws. Those who love God's Bible Law have been in training for some 30 years, they are being made ready for H. R. H. King Jesus to carry out his 2nd work as his loyal underlings, together with those of the first resurrection. That is the RISE of Abraham's Kin.

A short Biography of the author, Adam de Witt, is continued on the next page

Adam de Witt

ADAM DE WITT was born of emigrant parents who huddled many a night under the stairs of their town house whilst bombs rained down, laying waste their once lovely city. At the age of eleven his family was again on the move, leading to a life of dwelling in several countries and visiting many others besides. In all he visited 30 lands, studying their histories and gaining first hand experiences of how the world "ticks".

His higher education was in European colleges and his early career was in Europe's film industry where he experienced unusually hidden matters for the first time.

Although his forefathers were Christians, his parents were typical of the between-war generation for whom Christianity made way for socialism. Brought up as a socialist, evolutionist and humanist, Adam never even saw a Bible until his late twenties. Upon returning to Australia he settled down to raise a family. Christianity came to his door by way of numerous zealots doing their evangelical rounds. He listened to what they had to say and became curious to see what other denominations had to say.

He soon found that they all seemed to disagree with each other and none seriously understood or studied the Holy Writ enough to overcome their differences. It wasn't long before he was confronted with British Israelitism. Yet here too he found some short-comings. That led to Identity, but here too there were differences of understanding and attitude.

It became clear that Christianity is a growing process, for although God's will and plan is fixed, we as a people are not; we need to grow and throw out the wrong and hold fast to the truth.

The End

Harold Stough
Oldest New Testament Out Of Egypt Into Cyberspace

IN A MOVE REFLECTIVE OF THE POWER OF TECHNOLOGY, the oldest New Testament Bible will be placed online for all the world to examine. Of course, this is great news for students of Bible manuscripts. One fascinating fact about this archaeological gem is its origin in Egypt.

A Sample Page of The Document

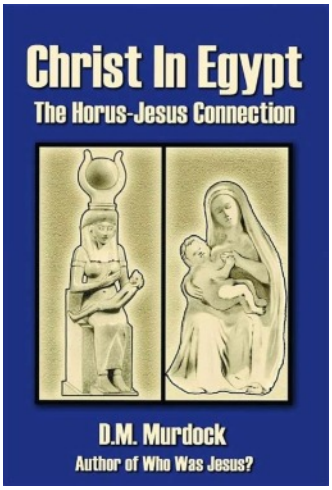

The New Testament manuscript in question is the Codex Sinaiticus, distinguished from earlier manuscripts by virtue of its completeness, containing all the canonical texts along with the Epistle of Barnabas and the Shepherd of Hermas, the former of which has been shown to have a provenance of Alexandria, Egypt. Along with the Codex Vaticanus, the CS is the oldest intact manuscript, dating to around 350 AD.

Importantly, the Codex Sinaiticus was discovered and evidently written in Egypt, a locale vastly overlooked in studies of Christian origins. It is my contention, in fact, that without factoring in Egyptian religion and mythology, the study of Christian origins will always be incomplete and faulty, because it is unquestionably out of Egypt that Christ was called, so to speak, as a mythical rehash largely of the Egyptian gods Osiris and Horus.

"Out of Egypt have I called my son."
--The Gospel of Matthew (2:15)

In reality, the Sinai Peninsula, where this text was found in the oldest Christian monastery, St. Catherine's, was the only established land route to Israel, possessing numerous important Egyptian sites, including a massive fortress and temple to Horus at Tharo/Tharu. In this location, countless thousands of travellers passed between the two nations over a period of several millennia. Indeed, much interchange between cultures occurred in this very region. It is no wonder, therefore, that this site would be a sacred hot spot for the establishment of what turns out to be a Jewish-Egyptian hybrid, i.e., Christianity.

In my forthcoming book Christ in Egypt: The Horus-Jesus Connection, I demonstrate the correspondences between the Egyptian and Christian religions in well documented detail, using primary source material as well as the works of highly credentialed scholars in relevant fields. Those who are interested in a preview of my book Christ in Egypt may wish to read my "Companion Guide to ZEITGEIST, Part 1," which contains a number of chapters from CIE.

Oldest New Testament Bible Heads into Cyberspace

By Dave Graham Mon Jul 21, 12:50 PM ET

BERLIN (Reuters) - More than 1,600 years after it was written in Greek, one of the oldest copies of the Bible will become globally accessible online for the first time this week.

The Codex Sinaiticus

From Thursday, sections of the Codex Sinaiticus, which contains the oldest complete New Testament, will be available on the Internet, said the University of Leipzig, one of the four curators of the ancient text worldwide.

High resolution images of the Gospel of Mark, several Old Testament books, and notes on the work made over centuries will appear on the Codex Sinaiticus website here as a first step towards publishing the entire manuscript online by next July.

Ulrich Johannes Schneider, director of Leipzig University Library (left), which holds part of the manuscript, said the publication of the Codex online would allow anyone to study a work of "fundamental" importance to Christians.

"A manuscript is going onto the net which is like nothing else online to date," Schneider said. "It's also an enrichment of the virtual world -- and a bit of a change from YouTube."

Selected translations will be available in English and German for those not conversant in ancient Greek, he added.

Dating from around 350, the document is believed by experts to be the oldest known copy of the Bible, along with the Codex Vaticanus, another ancient version of the Bible, Schneider said....

The project, launched in cooperation with the Russian National Library, the British Library and Saint Catherine's Monastery, also details the condition of the Bible, believed to have been written by early Christians in Egypt.

"I think it's just fantastic that thanks to technology we can now make the oldest cultural artifacts -- ones that were once so precious you couldn't show them to anyone -- accessible to everyone, in really high quality," said Schneider.

The End OS 19078

The Invisible Rainbow (Part 4)
Porphyrins and The Basis of Life
By
Arthur Firstenburg

WHICH BRINGS US FULL CIRCLE. The myelin sheaths (above) —the liquid crystalline sleeves surrounding our nerves—contain semi-conducting porphyrins, doped with heavy metal atoms, probably zinc.

It was Harvey Solomon and Frank Figge who, in 1958, first proposed that these porphyrins must play an important role in nerve conduction. The implications of this are especially important for people with chemical and electromagnetic sensitivities.

Those of us who, genetically, have relatively less of one or more porphyrin enzymes, may have a "nervous temperament" because our myelin is doped with slightly more zinc than our neighbours' and is more easily disturbed by the electromagnetic fields (EMFs) around us. Toxic chemicals and EMFs are therefore synergistic: exposure to toxins further disrupts the porphyrin pathway, causing the accumulation of more porphyrins and their precursors, rendering the myelin and the nerves they surround still more sensitive to EMFs.

According to more recent research, a large excess of porphyrin precursors can prevent the synthesis of myelin and break apart the myelin sheaths, leaving the neurons they surround naked and exposed.

The true situation is undoubtedly more complex than this, but to put all the pieces correctly together will require researchers who are willing to step outside our cultural blinders and acknowledge the existence of electrical transmission lines in the nervous systems of animals.

Already, mainstream science has taken the first step by finally acknowledging that glial cells are much more than packing material. In fact, a discovery by a team of researchers at the University of Genoa is currently revolutionizing neurology.

Their discovery is related to breathing. Everyone knows that the brain consumes more oxygen than any other organ, and that if a person stops breathing, the brain is the first organ to die. What the Italian team confirmed in 2009 is that as much as ninety percent of that oxygen is consumed not by the brain's nerve cells, but by the myelin sheaths that surround them.

Traditional wisdom has it that the consumption of oxygen for energy takes place only in tiny bodies inside cells called mitochondria. That wisdom has now been turned on its head. In the nervous system, at least, most of the oxygen appears to be consumed in the multiple layers of fatty substance called myelin, which contain no mitochondria at all, but which forty-year-old research showed contains non-heme porphyrins and is semi-conducting.

Some scientists are even beginning to say that the myelin sheath is, in effect, itself a giant mitochondrion, without which the huge oxygen needs of our brain and nervous system could never be met.

But to truly make sense of this collection of facts will also require the recognition that both the neurons, as Ling Wei proposed, and the myelin sheaths that envelop them, as Robert Becker proposed, work together to form a complex and elegant electrical transmission line system, subject to electrical interference just like transmission lines built by human engineers.

The exquisite sensitivity of even the normal nervous system to electromagnetic fields was proven in 1956 by zoologists Carlo Terzuolo and Theodore Bullock—and then ignored by everyone since.

In fact, even Terzuolo and Bullock were astonished by the results. Experimenting on crayfish, they found that although a substantial amount of electric current was needed to cause a previously silent nerve to fire, incredibly tiny currents could cause an already firing nerve to alter its firing rate tremendously.

A current of only 36 billionths of an ampere was enough to increase or decrease a nerve's rate of firing by five to ten percent. And a current of 150 billionths of an ampere— thousands of times less than is widely assumed, still today, by developers of modern safety codes, to have any biological effect whatever—would actually double the rate of firing, or silence the nerve altogether. Whether it increased or decreased the activity of the nerve depended only on the direction in which the current was applied to the nerve.

The Zinc Connection

The role of zinc was discovered in the 1950's by Henry Peters, a porphyrinologist at the University of Wisconsin Medical School (above). Like Morton after him, Peters was impressed by the number of people who seemed to have mild or latent porphyria, and thought the trait was far more prevalent that was commonly believed.

Peters discovered that his porphyria patients who had neurological symptoms were excreting very large amounts of zinc in their urine—up to 36 times normal. In fact, their symptoms correlated better with the levels of zinc in their urine than with the levels of porphyrins they were excreting.

With this information, Peters did the most logical thing: in scores of patients, he tried chelation to reduce the body's load of zinc, and it worked! In patient after patient, when courses of treatment with BAL or EDTA had reduced the level of zinc in their urine to normal, their illness resolved, and the patient remained symptom-free for up to several years.

Contrary to conventional wisdom, which assumes that zinc deficiency is common and should be supplemented, Peters' patients, because of their genetics and their polluted environment, were actually zinc-poisoned—as at least five to ten percent of the population, with hidden porphyria, may also be.

For the next forty years Peters found tremendous resistance to his idea that zinc toxicity was at all common, but growing evidence is now accumulating that this is so. Large amounts of zinc are in fact entering our environment, our homes, and our bodies from industrial processes, galvanized metals, and even the fillings in our teeth. Zinc is in denture cream and in motor oil.

There is so much zinc in automobile tires that their constant erosion makes zinc one of the main components of road dust—which washes into our streams, rivers, and reservoirs, eventually getting into our drinking water.

Wondering whether this was perhaps poisoning us all, a group of scientists from Brookhaven National Laboratory, the United States Geological Survey, and several universities raised rats on water supplemented with a low level of zinc. By three months of age, the rats already had memory deficits. By nine months of age, they had elevated levels of zinc in their brains.

In a human experiment, pregnant women in a slum area of Bangladesh were given 30 milligrams of zinc daily, in the expectation that this would benefit the mental development and motor skills of their babies.

The researchers found just the opposite. In a companion experiment, a group of Bangladeshi infants were given 5 milligrams of zinc daily for five months, with the same surprising result: the supplemented infants scored more poorly on standard tests of mental development.

And a growing body of literature shows that zinc supplements worsen Alzheimer's disease, and that chelation therapy to reduce zinc improves cognitive functioning in Alzheimer's patients.

An Australian team who examined autopsy specimens found that Alzheimer's patients had double the amount of zinc in their brains as people without Alzheimer's, and that the more severe the dementia, the higher the zinc levels.

Nutritionists have long been misled by using blood tests to judge the body's stores of zinc; scientists are finding out that blood levels are not reliable, and that unless you are severely malnourished there is no relation between the amount of zinc in your diet and the level of zinc in your blood.

In some neurological diseases, including Alzheimer's disease, it is common to have high levels of zinc in the brain while having normal or low levels of zinc in the blood. In a number of diseases including diabetes and cancer, urinary zinc is high while blood zinc is low.

It appears that the kidneys respond to the body's total load of zinc, and not to the levels in the blood, so that blood levels can become low, not because of a zinc deficiency but because the body is overloaded with zinc and the kidneys are removing it from the blood as fast as they can.

It also appears to be much more difficult than we used to think for people to become deficient by eating a zinc-poor diet; the body is amazingly capable of compensating for even extremely low levels of dietary zinc by increasing intestinal absorption and decreasing excretion through urine, stool, and skin.

While the recommended dietary allowance for adult males is 11 milligrams per day, a man can take in as little as 1.4 milligrams of zinc a day and still maintain homeostasis and normal levels of zinc in the blood and tissues. But a person who increases his or her daily intake beyond 20 milligrams may risk toxic effects in the long term.

Canaries in the Mine.

In our cells, the manufacture of heme from porphyrins can be inhibited by a large variety of toxic chemicals, and not—so far as we know—by electricity. But we will see in the coming chapters that electromagnetic fields interfere with the most important job that this heme is supposed to do for us: enabling the combustion of our food by oxygen so that we can live and breathe. Like rain on a campfire, electromagnetic fields douse the flames of metabolism.

They reduce the activity of the cytochromes, and there is evidence that they do so in the simplest of all possible ways: by exerting a force that alters the speed of the electrons being transported along the chain of cytochromes to oxygen.

Every person on the planet is affected by this invisible rain that penetrates into the fabric of our cells. Everyone has a slower metabolism, is less alive, than if those fields were not there.

We will see how this slow asphyxiation causes the major diseases of civilization: cancer, diabetes, and heart disease. There is no escape. Regardless of diet, exercise, lifestyle, and genetics, the risk of developing these diseases is greater for every human being and every animal than it was a century and a half ago. People with a genetic predisposition simply have a greater risk than everyone else, because they have a bit less heme in their mitochondria to start with.

In France, liver cancer was found to be 36 times as frequent in people carrying a gene for porphyria as in the general population. In Sweden and Denmark the rate was 39 times as high, and the lung cancer rate triple the general rate. Chest pain, heart failure, high blood pressure, and EKGs suggestive of oxygen starvation are well known in porphyria.

Porphyria patients with normal coronary arteries often die of heart arrhythmias or heart attacks. Glucose tolerance tests and insulin levels are usually abnormal. In one study, 15 of 36 porphyria patients had diabetes. The protean manifestations of this disease, capable of affecting almost any organ, are widely blamed on impaired cellular respiration due to a deficiency of heme. Indeed, no porphyrin expert has offered a better explanation.

The five to ten percent of the population who have lower porphyrin enzyme levels are the so-called canaries in the coal mine, whose songs of warning, however, have been tragically ignored.

They are the people who came down with neurasthenia in the last half of the nineteenth century when telegraph wires swept the world; the victims of sleeping pills in the late 1880's, of barbiturates in the 1920's, and of sulpha drugs in the 1930's; the men, women, and children with multiple chemical sensitivity, poisoned by the soup of chemicals that have rained on us since World War II; the abandoned souls with electrical sensitivity left behind by the computer age, forced into lonely exile by the inescapable radiation of the wireless revolution.

In Part Two of this book we will see just how extensively the general population of the world has been affected as a result of the failure to heed their warnings.

The Covid Shell Game – A Game in Three Parts Posted By Danceaway

The 'COVID' Scam Was/is a Shell Game with Three Parts.

1. The alleged "new virus"
2. The alleged test for the "new virus"
3. The alleged "new disease" caused by the "new virus".

DEFT MANIPULATION OF THESE THREE CONCEPTS – like the cups in a carnival sideshow game of pea-and-thimble – is how so many people were convinced they were looking at something undeniably real.

There Must be a new virus – because there's a New test for it

There Must be a valid test – because it can identify the new virus

There Must be a new disease because it has all these New symptoms.

People saw these three points and drew lines joining them in a neat triangle.

What few realized was the apparent connection was only alleged, imaginary. A kind of pareidolia.

There was Never any actual connection between these three things. They even tell us so in the official narrative – if you pay attention.

The illusion of connection is just the quickness of the propaganda deceiving the eye.

Let's break it down.

1. THE NEW VIRUS

Again and again people say "there must be a new disease – They Found the Virus."

No. They did not.

They found a virus. Allegedly. A potentially 'new' corona-virus. Maybe.

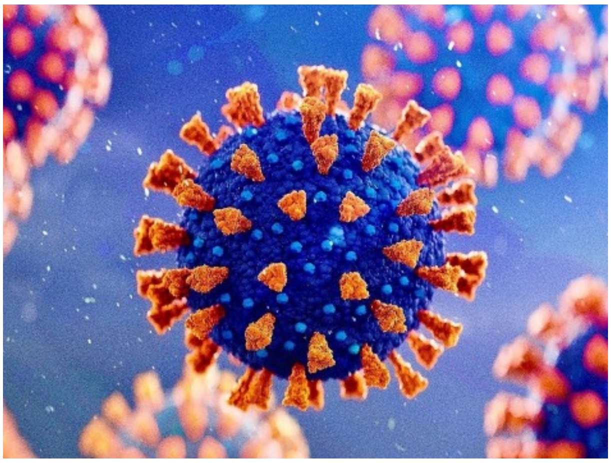

Some highly qualified people claim this "new virus" only exists as a theory. In silica – meaning inside a computer. A digitally rendered thought-conception of what the DNA of an alleged new SARS-corona-virus might look like on the genetic level.

But even if it happens to be a real physical discovery, let's get that in perspective.

Some people seem to think finding a 'new virus' is as unusual and remarkable as finding a new species of Great Ape or big cat. A noteworthy moment. Something to remark on.

No, it isn't.

Finding a new virus any time is as remarkable as finding a bee in a beehive. A beehive containing several billion bees that are constantly reproducing and mutating.

Virus theory dictates 'new' viruses emerge every day in their millions. There are literally said to be 10 nonillion viruses on the planet – that's a one followed by thirty-one zeros.

So, finding a new one – if you're looking for it – should be more common than not.

And the chance that any one you find happens to be the same one causing some new symptom in some human is about as good as your chance of dipping in your billion-strong beehive and picking out the bee you saw on your lavender bush yesterday.

So, even if you unconditionally accept the theories of virology, the 'new virus' in itself means nothing, unless there is something to tie this virus to an identifiable unique disease. And of course that's where the test comes in…right?

2. THE TEST

Many people, even those sceptical of the vax and the whole "pandemic" narrative, still seem to get hooked on the "test".

I mean it's a test. It must be testing for something.

And what's more – it finds it!

People 'test positive'.

How can you test positive for something that isn't there?

Well, of course the inventor of the PCR, who tragically died in 2019, could have told you exactly how you can test positive for something that isn't there. And if he hadn't died you could have bet the fortune you spent on masks he would have been telling you – loudly and often.

We have also told you – here and here and here.

To put it bluntly –

THE PCR DOES NOT IDENTIFY THE PRESENCE OF THE ALLEGED NEW VIRUS.

It can't. It literally can't. Even if done right. And especially when done wrong – which most of the 'covid' PCRs were.

A "positive" test could mean they had found some bits of RNA that belonged to some non-specific coronavirus. Or it could mean they just found some junk in your system.

It never meant they had literally found SARSCOV2.

So, the assumed line joining those two points of the triangle never actually existed.

Without the PCR there is literally nothing to connect the alleged 'new virus' and the alleged 'new disease'.

But that's just nitpicking, right? I mean, there's a new disease so it stands to reason there must be a new virus causing it. Even if the test is hopelessly flawed, even useless, surely the mere fact there is a new virus and a new disease suddenly present at the same time must mean cause and effect?

3. THE NEW DISEASE

A disease is classified as "new" when it presents a unique, repeated pattern of clinical symptoms and pathology.

Despite everything you absorbed through media and memes, there are No unique clinical symptoms associated with 'Covid'.

Sure, some have been hyped as such, but that was all it was – hype.

Two examples –

Loss of taste and smell? Pretty common respiratory virus symptom, can be long term due to nerve damage in some cases.

Ground glass opacities? Oh please, GGOs are a common non-specific finding in lung pathology. You can have them for any reason from inhaling an irritant to having pneumonia or TB.

Truth is – every alleged 'covid symptom' is also a 'flu' symptom or a cold symptom or a 'common seasonal respiratory infection' symptom, or a post-viral fatigue symptom.

Whatever hype you have ingested, this is the plain truth (which our updated Covid crib sheet will soon cover in detail).

In fact the only 'new' thing about 'Covid' — is the name.

And the massive PR machine associated with it.

The rest, in fact the entire perception of solid multi-focal 'reality', was just a creation, a clever bit of perception-manipulation and engendered attention bias.

A trick in other words.

So, what does our connective triangle look like now?

Well, it's actually just three unconnected random dots. Source

The End OS23387

Blue Light, Light-Sensitive Soap, Acidity and Magnets Turn Graphene Oxide into "Black Death"!! Posted By Weaver

BLACK DEATH TECHNOLOGICAL DEPOPULATION PLAGUE OF THE 21ST CENTURY Breakthrough Revelations Everybody Needs To Know Now!! Blue Light, Light-Sensitive Soap, Acidity And Magnets Turn Graphene Oxide Into "Black Death"!!

(What you are about to read may be considered to be one of most significant breakthrough articles in modern times, pertaining to the sudden increase in mass death.)

Okay folks… we have some important things to learn about graphene oxide and our health. These few things, I'm theorizing, could easily save many lives and even reverse the depopulation and genocide agenda, and they are based on EXISTING SCIENCE. Are you ready to get into it?

Let's go…

But before we get into the nuts and bolts of this amazing information I'm about to share with you, I want you to know that from my standpoint, I don't have a laboratory to test these things already known by science… so it's not 100%… but what I can assure you, is that it's my intention to share truth, and my intention to provide the best information I can to humanity, to help deal with this strange situation we've all found ourselves in, jabbed or un-jabbed.

First off… feel free to read the following page—– then come back to this page, so that we can work through these discoveries together.

Now one theory is this—light, soap and magnets turn graphene (above) in to 'black gold' for water purification and electronic devices, but in the body, light, soap and magnets turn graphene into 'black death'. Does that sound about right? Going further: Light, Light-Sensitive Soap, And Magnets Turn Graphene Oxide Into "Black Death"

Insurance companies have noticed something is causing mass death–- and we've all heard the term 'sudden adult death syndrome' right? US Life Insurance Companies Reveal Over whelming Unexplained Increase In All-Cause Death!!

Excess Mortality Explosion Coming!! Expected 5000% increase in excess mortality for this year says—-

Sudden Adult Death Syndrome–-Here's What It Really Means And Why You Have To–-Sudden adult death syndrome theory cannot hold up in court.

Sudden Adult Death Syndrome Cover Story Doomed To Fail In Court!! You Must Hear…

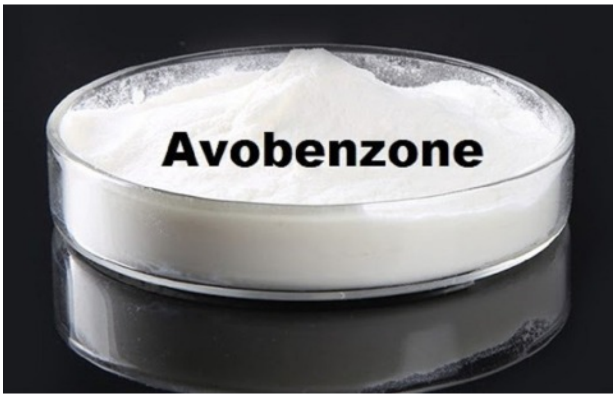

Okay… so with that established let's go back to the theory: light, soap and magnets equals 'black death'—- but reading the article we can add "acidity" to the formula— so the formula becomes: light, light-sensitive soap, acidity, graphene and magnets equals black death"

Let's look at the light component: Looking at the science they say this: Blue light causes light-sensitive soap to stick to carbon nano-particles, and violet light causes them to let go.

What on earth is light-sensitive soap? Let's look. The article suggests, "azobenzene" is a component of light-sensitive soap because the benzene changes it shape when illuminated with light of specific wavelength–-UV–-and has an another shape in 'blue light"—- does that make sense?

Now let's go shopping…. uh oh… we struck black gold… it's an ingredient in sunscreen… now it seems like they are using something called "avobenezone", but it seems to have the same light activation abilities, that's why it provides "UV protection".

What's Wrong With Sunscreens Containing Avobenzone?

Avobenzone Containing Sunscreens Often Cause Skin Allergies There are a number of articles in the literature about Octocrylene – the most common avobenzone stabilizer chemical – causing skin irritation, including rashes and acne. Avobenzone Containing Sunscreens can cause hormone disruption – and are even more toxic when exposed to chlorine'

Okay, if it's in sunscreen as 'UV protection', that means it's probably in other "UV protection" products–-like–-soap perhaps???? And UV hand sanitizer perhaps??? UV body wash perhaps??? See Here.

Looks like there are many many of these products. 10. Turns out benzene is in other consumer products too… uh oh… what if these benzene ingredients can somehow make azobenzene in the body??? Seems like all you'd need is some nitrogen and a catalyst, and it could be possible?? Maybe this explains why some of those other chemicals are in those products??

Benzene in dish soap, mouthwash, in antibacterial– HealingWell.

Who ever thought to put it in dish soap, the stuff you wash your baby's bottles in? So I did a little research and it turns out that Triclosan–the active ingredient in antibacterial soaps of all kinds, even shampoos and body washes–is a benzene derivative and causes cancer and lots of other health problems.

1 Turns out azobenzene is a class of compounds!!

2. Now let's get back to more discoveries–- it turns out iron oxide sticks to graphene, and then graphene can be moved about using a magnetic field!!

3. Would you be surprised to know that the heart is the strongest magnetic field in the body? Could this be a connection to sudden increase in myocarditis? Could this be that the heart is also where iron gravitates to in the body?

Beef Heart Nutrition and Benefits – Dr. Robert Kiltz

3 Jan 3, 2022 - Beef heart's iron content is yet another thing that makes it cardio-protective. Iron helps deliver oxygen to your tissues; if you're low in iron, you'll probably feel sluggish and tired all the time. [16] Just three ounces of beef heart contains over two-thirds of your daily iron requirement. Mood-boosting

4. We also know that blood is high in iron–-that's a No-brainer. This probably accounts for graphene oxide's inherent toxicity to the body.

5. Back to the formula: light, soap, acidity, graphene and magnets equals 'black death'. Blue light causes graphene to stick to the light-sensitive soap, and violet light causes it 'let go'.

6. You do realize 'blue light' is everywhere, in the streetlights–- household light bulbs, computer screens, cell screens? What if you hold your cell-phone screen to your head or body??? I shudder to think about it–intense blue light and a Strong Magnetic Field!! Source.

The End OS23388

Letters and Views

The Enemy

They fight for unity by propagating division.

They fight for peace by propagating war.

They fight for health by propagating disease.

Everything they say they're fighting, they're actually promoting and spreading. It's all manipulation, subversion and double speak. Yours truly, Danny Zeck.

The Ukraine Situation

Sir__, Jewish terrorist groups from Israel, US arid France dressed up as Ukrainian ultra nationalists flood Ukraine to take up positions in civilian quarters, at kinder gardens and schools to maximise civilian casualties in the war.

Ordinary Jews temporarily vacate Ukraine for the West. Their oligarchs flee to Israel, both to return when the land is sufficiently cleaned of the whites to form their new Khazaria.

In addition to Ukraine, it should later extend to Hungary (which is why they kept Hungary clean of Negroes), Slovakia, and Austria. The inclusion of the additional three countries to be performed invisibly by cultural and political means.

Demographic content of the countries to be changed gradually by such means as vaccines, birth control and employment Opportunities. Yours truly. KH, West Midlands.

Letter From a Well-Educated Nurse

To whom this may concern:

Among all the vaccines I have known in my life (diphtheria, tetanus, measles, rubella, chicken-pox, hepatitis, meningitis and tuberculosis as well as flu and pneumonia vaccines).

I have never seen a vaccine that forced me to wear a mask and maintain my social distance, even when fully vaccinated. I had never heard of a vaccine that spreads the virus even after vaccination.

I had never heard of rewards, discounts, and incentives to get vaccinated. I never saw discrimination for those who didn't accept vaccination, no one would try to make you feel like a bad person. 1 have never seen a vaccine that threatens the relationship between family, colleagues and friends.

I have never seen a vaccine used to threaten livelihoods, work or school, one that would allow a 12-year-old to override parental consent. Including all the vaccines I listed above, I have never seen a vaccine like this one, which discriminates, divides and judges society. It's a powerful vaccine. It does all these things except IMMUNIZE!

If, fully vaccinated, we still need a booster dose, still need to get a negative test, still need to wear a mask and still wind up in the hospital, it is time for us to admit that we've been completely deceived. Thank you for your time. Yours truly Christine, UK.

Memes

"When people are forced to remain silent when they are being told the most obvious lies, or even worse when they are forced to repeat the lies themselves, they lose once and for all their sense of probity.

To assent to obvious lies is to co-operate with evil, and in some small way to become evil oneself. One's standing to resist anything is thus eroded, and even destroyed. A society of emasculated liars is easy to control." ~ Theodore Dalrymple.

The way to crush the bourgeoisie is to grind them between the millstones of taxation and inflation.

Vladimir Lenin

Don't Quit

When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up hill, When the funds are low and the debts are nigh And you want to smile, but you have to sigh, When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.
Life is strange with its twists and turns
As every one of us sometimes learns
And many a failure comes about

When he might have won had he stuck it out;
Don't give up though the pace seems slow—
You may succeed with another blow.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell just how close you are,
It may be near when it seems so far;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worst that you must not quit.
For all the sad words of tongue or pen The saddest are these: "It might have been!"

-John Greenleaf Whittier (1807-1892)

Posted by John Daniels USA

The Enemy is Falling

Sir__, Here is a translation of an article from Nordfront.

AUSTRIA - A media doctor in Austria has committed suicide following criticism. The doctor was known for advocating forcible marriage and draconian restrictions.

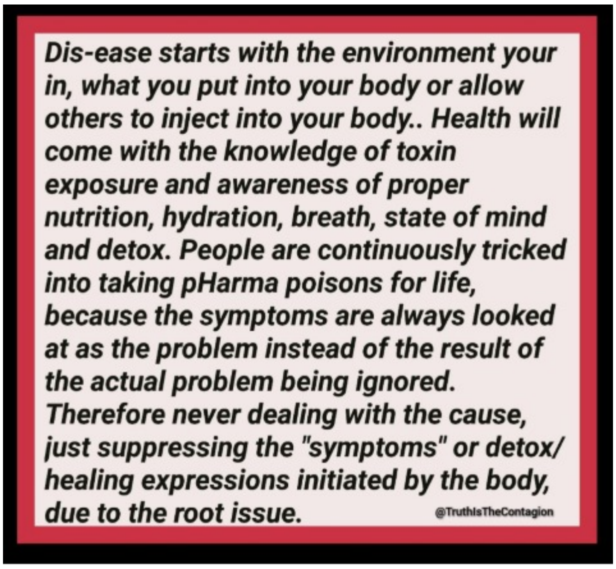

Lisa Maria Kellermayr was a general practitioner who made a name for herself in the Austrian media during the Corona pandemic. She is said to have been a strong advocate of vaccine compulsion and harsh restrictions for all Austrians.

Because of this, she has faced massive criticism from people on social media, according to Dagens Nyheter it even includes death threats.

Last Friday, Kellermayr was found dead inside her old doctor's office, which she closed again a month earlier. Police suspect she committed suicide. The discovery is said to have aroused strong reactions in the country.

The doctor has previously said that Austrian police authorities had not taken the threats against her seriously. According to media reports, Kellermayr has written a letter of resignation, in which she reiterates this.

In January this year, Austria's parliament passed a law requiring all citizens to take one of the vaccines against Covid-19. The law was described as tyrannical and was met with demonstrations involving hundreds of thousands of people across the country. The government had to backtrack on the vaccine law back in March. Yours truly, Mike, Sweden.

Daily reminder that you cannot be a Christian and a Mason . If you are associated with Masonry , you are in a state of mortal sin, and cannot receive Holy Communion

Therefore the Church's negative judgment in regard to Masonic association remains unchanged since their principles have always been considered irreconcilable with the doctrine of the Church and therefore membership in them remains forbidden. The faithful who enrol in Masonic associations are in a stale of grave sin and may not receive Holy Communion. Yours truly, KH, West Midlands, UK.

Truth

Sir__, One of the biggest stumbling blocks that people find in accepting the truth, is the recognition that pure evil exists.

For some reason we reject and resist the notion that unthinkable evil takes place in the hands of those we have been sold as knowledgeable, educated and respectable.

Inevitably you get the dreaded question: 'Why would they do that?' 'Why would they want to harm us?' and yet if you look back at history the powerful have been harming us for power and control since the world began!

Now they have more sophisticated and efficient ways of harming us, look at what is happening right now. Now they have silent killers; bio-weapons in the form of engineered viruses and 'vaccines'.

The more of us in the world, the more drastic their measures become to keep us under control, both in numbers and capabilities (a dumbed down, unhealthy population is incapable of insurrection).

I understand, that as good people that we mostly are, the notion of such evil is hard to swallow, but if you take a moment to reflect on it, you might understand that evil has existed since Eve took the bite of that damn apple!

The sooner we accept the nature of our enemy the sooner we can start building our defence.

The first step: embrace God as the light that is within you. The next step, be prepared to fight for that light. Let nobody and nothing dim it.

With these two convictions you are now armed and fearless to face whatever comes your way.

Evil is powerful only as far as you will allow it to be. That is the TRUTH.

Joshua 1:9; Haven't I commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Don't be afraid. Don't be dismayed, for Yahweh your God [Elohim] is with you wherever you go." Yours truly, Laura.

Hemp
Forwarded from Sovereign Redneck Renegade

Sir__, The year is 1914. The years of WWI and farmers growing "hemp" in exchange for US dollars.... Keep this in mind and keep reading.

Industrial hemp is not just another agricultural plant. It is the antidote to oil and the dollar

How Is Hemp Banned?

1. One acre of hemp produces as much oxygen as 25 acres of forest.

2. Again, one acre of hemp can produce as much paper as 4 acres of trees.

3. While hemp can be turned into paper 8 times, wood can be made into paper 3 times.

4. Hemp grows in 4 months, wood in 20-50 years.

5. Cannabis is a real radiation trap.

6. Cannabis can be grown anywhere in the world and needs little water. Because it can keep insects away, it doesn't need pesticides either.

7. If textiles made with hemp are generalized, the pesticide industry could disappear completely

8. The first jeans were made with hemp; even the word "KANVAS" is the name given to hemp products. Hemp is also an ideal plant for containing ropes, laces, purses, shoes and hats.

9. Reduces the effects of chemotherapy and radiation in the treatment of cannabis, AIDS and cancer; it is used in at least 250 diseases such as rheumatism, heart, epilepsy, asthma, stomach, insomnia, psychology and for spinal stiffness.

10. The protein value of hemp seeds is very high and the two fatty acids they contain are nowhere else in nature.

11. Hemp is even cheaper to produce than soy.

12. Animals fed by cannabis don't need hormonal supplements.

13. All plastic products can be made with hemp, and hemp plastic is very easy to return to nature.

14. If the body of a car is made of hemp, it will be 10 times stronger than steel.

15. It can also be used to insulate buildings; it is durable, cheap and flexible.

16. Soaps and cosmetics made with hemp do not pollute the water, so they are totally environmentally friendly.

In 18th-century America, production was mandatory and farmers who didn't produce them were jailed. But now the situation has been turned on its head. WHY?

W. R. Hearst owned newspapers, magazines and media in the United States in the 1900's. They had forests and made paper. If paper was made with hemp, he could have lost millions.

Rockefeller was the richest man in the world; had an oil company. Bio fuel, hemp oil, was of course his biggest enemy.

Mellon was one of the leading shareholders in the Dupont company and had a patent to manufacture plastics from oil products. And the cannabis industry threatened its market.

Mellon later became President Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury. Those big names we were talking about decided in their meetings that cannabis was the enemy, and they removed it. Through the media, they engraved marijuana into people's brains as a toxic drug, along with the word marijuana.

Cannabis drugs were taken off the market, replaced by the chemical drugs used today.

Forests are cut down to produce paper.

Plague poisoning and cancer are on the rise.

And then we fill our world with plastic waste, harmful waste. Yours truly, Luc Luuc Vdf Christiaanse.

The End

The Race of Genesis 10 (Part 2) By Willie Martin

The Race of Genesis 10 - 3

Kazakhstan

RIPHATH, ANOTHER OF GOMER'S SONS, is unmentioned elsewhere in the Bible (except for a copy of Genesis 10 found in 1 Chronicles, chapter 1) Ashkenaz, however, is easily identified. Mentioned in Jeremiah 51:27 along with the Arat and Minni (both part of modern Armenia), Ashkenaz is there shown to be not far from the ancient land of the Khazars, once a great empire and of which modern Kazakhstan is a remnant.

In the first millennium many of the Edomites and Canaanites who had adopted Judaism migrated to Khazaria, and had converted a great many Khazars. The "Jews" being absorbed into the general population, these people later adopted the name Aslenaz, or "Ashkenazi Jews," for Ashkenaz was recognized as an ancestor of the original Caucasian population of the area.

Over 1500 years before the Germanic Rus conquered the land which bears their name today, Ezekiel wrote of Rhos (LXX) or Rush (A. V.) Being the leader ("prince") of Gog, Meshech and Tubal. (Ezekiel 38) This is by no means coincidental. Whoever Magog may have been in prehistoric times, we can be certain that his descendants are found among those gigantic ("Gog") mixed masses of Caucasian-Mongol -Chinese - whatever blood who are found inhabiting much of Russia today.

We find the following in Psalm 120:5-7

> 5: Woe is me, that I sojourn in Mesech, that I dwell in the tents of Kedar!
>
> 6: My soul hath long dwelt with him that hateth peace.
>
> 7: I am for peace: but when I speak, they are for war.

In light of the relationship which the Rus were to have with Magog, Meshech and Tubal, which Ezekiel 38 illustrates, Herodotus mentions two tribes among those under Persian domination, the "Moschi" and "Tibareni" (Herodotus 3:94; 7:78), in a convenient geographic region that without stretching the imagination, we may associate these ancient Japhethites with the dwellers around the Russian cities of Moscow and Tobolsk today.

However, it is certain that at some point in time all of these peoples have mingled with the pre-Adamic races related to those of the Orient.

That Madai is identifiable with the Medes should be evident simply by checking both terms in Strong's Concordance. The Greeks wrote "Mede" as, “the" "in English being either an ‘a' or an “o” " or “e”.

Herodotus 7:62 (above) wrote that "These Medes were anciently called by all people Arians" although it is more likely that the term "Aryan" was rather used by Israelites who once sojourned in Media (with which Dr. G. Moore agrees in his The Lost Tribes And The Saxon of The East And The Saxons of The West), since the term "Arya" seems to be "mountain of Yahweh" in Hebrew (i.e., Daniel 2:45), and that the Greeks had Israelite tribes in Media confused with actual Medes.

Medes and Persians at Eastern Stairs of the Apadana, Persepolis - Persepolis

Regardless, with the Medes fulfilling a destiny in history which the prophets had already assigned to Medai (Isaiah 23; Jeremiah 25:25; 51:11, 28 and Daniel 8), there should be no doubt as to this identification.

It may well be that the Medes are found in the Slavs of today. The Slavs may be, at least in part, traced to a people that Romans and Greeks called Sarmatians (Sauromatae). Diodorus Siculus, discussing certain Sakae (Scythian) kings, (2:43:5-7) states that "It was by these kings that army of the conquered (by the Scotians) peoples were removed to other homes, and two of these became very great colonies: the one was composed of Assyrians and was removed to the land between Paphlagonia and Pontus, and the other was drawn from Media and planted along the Tanais, its people receiving the name of Sauromatae. Many years later this people became powerful and ravaged a large part of Scythia."

If this is so, and we have so many Slavs among us today, that such must be the fulfilment of Genesis 9:27, for we Germanic, Scandinavian, Anglo-Saxon and Celtic peoples are descendants of the Scythian-Israelites, and the true Semites. (For to "dwell in the tents of Shem" implies that Japheth was absorbed and became part of Shem's family)

The next of Japheth's sons to be discussed is Javan Strong, in his Concordance, identifies Javan with the Ionian Greeks, and the Septuagint translators seem to also, rendering the Hebrew word #3120 as (Iouan). This is not without reason, for on the Behistun Rock (and other Eastern inscriptions) the Greeks are called "Yavana," and Sir Henry Rawlinson wrote "Ionians" there in his famous translation of that inscription.

Other Persian inscriptions assure this same connection (see G. Moore's The Lost Tribes–and E. R. Cap'ts Missing links–-). These Ionians once inhabited the coasts of Anatolia (Turkey today) and many of its islands, that land called Ionia generally, and also were the founders and principal inhabitants of Athens.

The Race of Genesis 10 - 4

Of the sons of Javan, all are identified with the sea trade with Tyre in Ezekiel 27; Elishah 27:7, Tarshish 27:12, Kittim (or Chittim) 27:6, and in the Septuagint, "Dodanim."

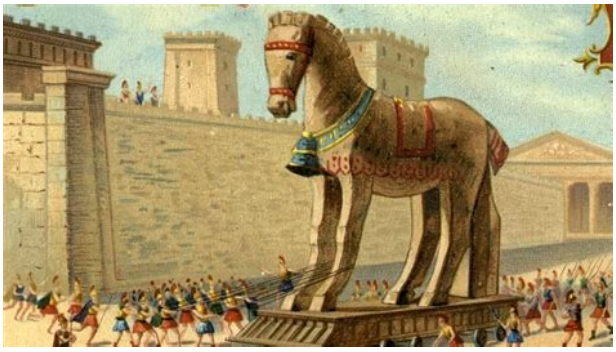

A mistake by the Hebrew copyists for "Rodanim" (as Strong attests), "Rhodians" in the Septuagint, are also mentioned at 27:15, where the AV, has "Dedan." Elishah and Kittim are both identified with the island of Cyprus, with several varying spellings of these names in ancient inscriptions.

"Dodanim," or "Rodanim," in the Septuagint "Rhodians," are the Greeks of Rhodes, and Tarshish is a region of southern Spain known as Tartessus. The Ionians (or Javan) themselves are connected with Tyrian sea trade in Ezekiel 27:13, 19.

The ships of "Tarshish" are mentioned in Kings, Chronicles, Psalms and several of the prophets. Although a separate and quite lengthy topic, it can be convincingly demonstrated that the "Phoenicians" of Tyre and elsewhere were the Israelites; called Phoenicians by the Greeks, right from the pages of the Bible, with much evidence also added by secular historians.

Carthage was a Phoenician colony of Tyre, and the Carthaginians evidently controlled the land we call Spain today, then called Iberia, "Hebrew" or "Eber" land, just as the land south of the Caucasus Mountains, where the deported Israelites first settled and became known as Scotians, was also called Iberia even in Roman times.

Diodorus Siculus (25:10:1 ff.) Discusses wars between the Carthaginian Hamilcar Barca and the "Iberians and Tartessians" in the third century B.C. Herodotus (4:152) is writing about a period much earlier than his one, even predating the Trojan War, and says "This trading town was in those days a virgin port, unfrequented by the merchants."

The Trojan War was 200 years before King Solomon's ships, so maybe be Herodotus was correct. Surely Herodotus' calling Tartessus a "trading town" illuminates the Scriptural record. In their Greek-English Lexicon, the learned Liddle & Scott readily identify as "the Tarshish of Scripture."

The last Japhethite tribe to discuss is Tiras, or in Strong's Hebrew spelling, Thiyrac. Although we have no recorded sources for a connection, many modern writers have made perfect etymological sense in presenting Thrace as the habitation of these people.

Modern anthropologists, archaeologists and historians often discuss the "sea peoples" whom they usually claim were Caucasians who came from the Aegean area and invaded the Mediterranean. The true origin of these "sea peoples" are as the Japhethites of Genesis 10, who were spread along the waterways from the Caspian and Black Seas and as far west as Spain, and at a very early time. Contrast Genesis 10:5 with 10:20 and 10:31, where the Japhethites are specifically assigned the "isles" or "coast lands," but not the Hamites or Shemites.

The End OS15205

Turn The Other Cheek - The Cowards Favourite Verse

By Ray Mondmhor

Posted By Our West Midlands Correspondent

Ray Mondmhor

YOU DO NOT KNOW HOW MANY EMAILS I GET FROM IGNORANT COWARDS AND SO-CALLED PACIFISTS who always quote "We are not supposed to fight, we are told to turn the other cheek."

This is primarily taken from Matthew.

Matthew 5:39 But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

It upsets me that so many who call themselves Christians today do not take the time to really study Scripture and look into the context from which a lot of popular ideas stem.

This is taken from Matthew 5 which is the beginning of the famous Sermon on the Mount, which goes all the way through to chapter 7.

In this portion Christ is talking about dealing with your enemies. The problem is that there are different types of enemies, enemy personal, enemy universal, enemy corporate. The pacifist lumps it all into one category, "enemy".

The problem is that what Christ is talking about here are personal enemies and not those who are corporate / universal.

When we read in context, we see that Christ is addressing social issues. How to deal with one another, being angry with one another, issues like adultery and divorce, making promises you cannot keep or making promises you should not promise to keep.

We then come to the famous turn the other cheek / love your enemy part.

> Matthew 5: 38-48 Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:
>
> 39 but I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.
>
> 40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.
>
> 41 And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.
>
> 42 Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.
>
> 43 Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.
>
> 44 But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;
>
> 45 that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

> 46 For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?
>
> 47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so?
>
> 48 Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.

In these verses, as well as in all of Chapter 5, Christ is dealing with personal social issues, not government or corporate issues.

Nowhere does it say that we cannot defend ourselves, not protect the innocent, and not protect our family.

Breaking Down "Turn The Other Cheek" – Which Hand?

> Matthew 5: 39 but I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

For the past 100 years we have stopped being a war like / fighting people. Because we are no longer fighters, we miss out on something that our forefathers understood plain as day.

Let's Look at Social Norms

First, the majority of the world is "right" handed. Why is that? I honestly believed that God created man to be right-handed and to this day that still remains to be the norm. Only 15% of the world's population is left-handed.

Throughout history and social norms, the left hand is always the "unclean" hand. In the days before proper sanitary conditions, men and women used their left hand to deal with all their "nether regions" hygiene issues. This includes the monthly issues with which women have to contend.

SO—no one and I mean no one used the left hand for any sort of social interaction. To this day we still honour that idea.

Just as a quick test, reach your left hand to shake hands and watch the other person's eyes. You will see that you are "tripping them up" mentally. They will think a moment before offering the left hand, that is, if they even offer a hand at all.

In today's PC world where people don't ask "Why" and do not want to "offend," most people will then shake with the left hand if given a few moments to think about it.

We can see that even Luke records the social norm when he references the Sermon on the Mount.

Luke 6:29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.

When you read from the Authorized King James Bible, you will notice that the word "One" is it italicised. It is italicised because he is referencing the "right" cheek or proper cheek. Luke is talking about the "right" side as opposed to the wrong side or second side.

The historical social norm is that the right side is always right / first, and the left side is always the wrong side, second or what is "left."

Do a study on right vs left in social norms. It is amazing to find out why we do what we do and this in and of itself shows that God is in fact our Creator and we did not just appear out of some primordial ooze. God put thought into us and ingrained these ideas into our DNA.

Now, with this little history lesson out of the way, let me ask you the following…

How does a right-handed person "smite" or strike someone on the right cheek?

Think on this for a moment and hum the Jeopardy game show theme in your mind as you are thinking. Ready?

The only way a right-handed person could strike someone on the right cheek is use the back of the hand to slap them with what is commonly known as a backslap.

If you would "attack" someone and intend to do serious damage / fight a person, you would use a fist and strike the closest target, that being the left cheek. But Christ is Clearly talking about the right cheek.

Because we are no longer a fighting warlike people, we miss the entire context of this message. Because of the consequent misinterpretation, we feminize the meaning. Since we have become so emasculated, we lose out on what Christ is telling us.

> Context 1 – Christ is talking about social issues / treating one another.
>
> Context 2 – one NEVER strikes another with a left hand. That is the unclean hand, and one just did not break that unwritten social rule no matter what.
>
> Context 3 – In a fighting warlike society, if you backslap someone, it has always been seen as a form to bring shame / insult to the person who is being slapped.

To put it in modern terminology "Bi–h-slap" (think the proper term for a female dog)

To define this, we read the following—Bitch-slap "to hit someone's face (usually the cheek) with the back of one's hand. Typically performed when the person is being insubordinate and is used to assert one's authority, rather than to cause great harm."

Christ is not talking about universal / corporate enemies, enemies at large or nation states that want to do us harm.

He is talking about that real jerk at work who always wants to up you by one, rub your nose in it when you make a mistake, the one who is always starting rumours about you, and the one who is most likely be the person who will take his or her keys and put a huge scratch down the side of your car. That is the sort of enemy Christ is talking about here.

But because over the past 100 years we have gone from a fighting warlike people to a soft feminised PC culture, "God is Love" sort of people, we have been missing this point.

Did Christ Turn The Other Cheek? Heck No! The Lion of Judah Comes Out.

How many of you know or remember the scene in the garden when Jesus was arrested? There is a lot going on here, but when you read all four accounts from the Gospels, we clearly see the "Lion of Judah" coming out in Christ and not some meek lamb that is often portrayed.

In the garden Christ shows His street smarts as well as giving us a peek at the "Lion of Judah," even though He allowed Himself submission to being the "Lamb."

John gives an account with a lot of detail that the other gospels did not include. There is a lot there when we really take the time to read.

Please take the time to read the following. It is important, so please do not skim it, really read––John 18: 2 – 11

2 And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place: for Jesus ofttimes resorted thither with his disciples.

3 Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye seek me, let these go their way:

9 that the saying might be fulfilled, which he spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none
.

10 Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

Did you see the "lion" here?

First point – Judas betrays Christ with a kiss and then returns to the crowd of men. This in and of itself was seen as an insult. Luke even records Christ reaction to this insult…

Luke 22:48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

In other words, "Judas, you know who I am (referring to the fact that He is God in the Flesh) and you betray me with a lowly kiss?"

He was basically calling Judas a coward and a weakling.

Second Point – Jesus recovers from the insult and boldly asks "Whom seek ye?" They answer back they are seeking Jesus of Nazareth.

Third Point – Many people miss the following: we witness The Lion's Roar, but John is the only one who records it…

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground. When Christ said "I Am He, " He said it as a warrior and One with authority. Remember He was just insulted by the cowardly kiss that Judas gave him. He was letting the mass of people there know that He is The Lion of Judah, the Son of God, The Alpha and Omega. He startled them so much that they all, including Judas, were stepping backwards and falling to the ground.

Now, to give you an idea of the large number of people there to arrest Christ, we read the following in Mark.

Mark 14:43 And immediately, while he yet spake, cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders.

Here is a very good excerpt describing the "great multitude" …

I want you to understand exactly who this "band of men" and these "officers from the chief priests" were so you can see the full picture of what happened that night on the Mount of Olives. I believe you will be flabbergasted when you realize the gigantic numbers of armed men who came looking for Jesus that night!

The soldiers Judas brought with him to the Garden of Gethsemane were soldiers who served at the Tower of Antonia—a tower that had been built by the Hasmonean rulers.

Later it was renamed the "Tower of Antonia" by King Herod in honour of one of his greatest patrons, Marc Antony (yes, the same Marc Antony who fell in love with the Egyptian queen Cleopatra!).

The Tower of Antonia was a massive edifice that was built on a rock and rose seventy-five feet into the air. Its sides had been completely smoothed flat to make it difficult for enemies to scale its walls. Although it had many towers, the highest one was located on the southeast corner, giving the watchman an uninhibited view of the temple area as well as much of Jerusalem.

Inside this massive complex was a large inner courtyard for exercising the Roman cohort—comprised of 300 to 600 specially trained soldiers—who were stationed there. These troops were poised to act defensively in the event of an insurgency or riot. In fact, a staircase led from the tower into the temple; enabling the troops to enter the temple in a matter of minutes should a disturbance develop there.

One writer has noted that there was even a secret passageway from the tower to the inner court of the priests, making it possible for troops to reach even that holy, off-limits location.

John 18:3 records that there was "a band of men" in the Garden that night. The Greek word for "a band of men" is spira.

This is the word that describes a military cohort—the group of 300 to 600 soldiers mentioned above. These extremely well-trained soldiers were equipped with the finest weaponry of the day. Source.

This was a major event. Over 300 and more like 600 well-armed and well-trained men came to take on Christ and his disciples.

Another fact that many people overlook is that the disciples were not any wimpy slouches themselves.

We read in Luke …

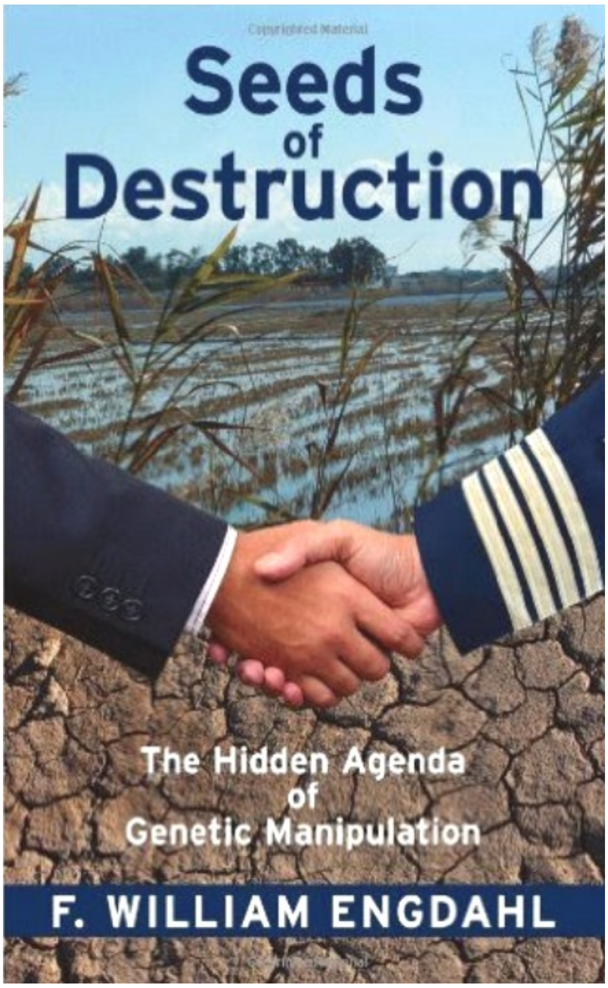

Luke 22:49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

These guys were itching for a fight. In fact, Peter jumps the gun and gets into it. He proceeds to cut off the ear of the high priest's personal servant.

To be continued OS23389

Food as a Weapon Book Review By F. William Engdahl Posted by Tapestry

I WANT TO SHARE WITH YOU THE INCREDIBLE STORY OF CORRUPT SCIENCE IN THE NAME OF GMO AGRIBUSINESS GIANT MONSANTO, today part of Bayer AG in Germany. It is relevant to gain more insight as to the motives of both the Bill Gates and Rockefeller foundations in the present corona virus pandemic.

It deals with the incredible case of French molecular biologist Gilles-Éric Séralini and a peer-reviewed study he published in September, 2012 in the Journal of Food and Chemical Toxicology. His was the first-ever long-term (2 years) rat study of the effects of a diet of Monsanto GMO maize which showed dramatic growth of cancer tumours and death as well as organ damage. The study also noted the presence of glyphosate and other feeding chemical toxins as mandated by Monsanto.

The worldwide reaction threatened the very existence of Monsanto as well as the entire GMO project and caused Monsanto to employ extraordinary measures to try to put the genie back in the bottle. Ultimately, it was a major factor leading to their decision to "disappear"

Monsanto in a takeover by GMO-friendly German giant Bayer AG. Since that date thousands of legal suits against Monsanto by victims of Monsanto glyphosate-based Roundup have threatened Bayer with huge legal costs and losses.

Everything about the GMO project and the role of Monsanto is embedded with rampant corruption and deceit. The backers of the GMO project, notably the Rockefeller and Gates foundations are also the most dedicated backers of human eugenics—purity of the human race by major population reduction. Is there a link between their promotion of GMO and their support for eugenics? Judge for yourselves.

I say this with each issue of my complimentary newsletter, but today it is more important than ever.

I depend on your support to be able to continue offering my work free. Politically-biased censorship by the likes of Facebook, Twitter, Google are working intensely to silence critical opinion that differs with their agenda. Please consider making a support via my PayPal on my website.

What customers are saying about Seeds of Destruction: The Hidden Agenda of Genetic Manipulation:

"Most Important Book of this New Century" — David Chu

"Get ready to have your eyes opened, big-time." — Laura

"Could not put it down till I read it through." — Blue Rabbit.

"Thank you Mr. Engdahl for this well written book!" — Lori "The Rogue Reader Mom"

"Everyone Should Read This Book" — DeannaF

"This is an absolute must read…" — Eternal Howl

"Five Stars" — lizzee.d

"A must read for anyone new to the GMO controversy" — Rebecca Alden

"An informative, factual wild ride accounting that reads like a good spy novel" — MaryAnn

"I highly recommend that everyone…give this book a read." — Anne Mendenhall

"WARNING: If you are timid and faint of heart, do not read "Seeds of Destruction" by F. William Engdahl. Instead, go back to sleep, and take comfort in being lied to by American corporations and U.S. governmental agencies. After all, ignorance is bliss. Otherwise, "Seeds of Destruction" is a Must-read book" — Justin Time.

You can find this great and informative book on amazon.com.

The End OS23392

Some Quotes About the Tavistock Institute From Our West Midlands Correspondent

THE AIMS OF THE TAVISTOCK INSTITUTE IS TO WEAKEN THE MORAL FIBRE OF THE NATION AND TO DEMORALIZE WORKERS in the labour class by creating mass unemployment. As jobs dwindle due to the post industrial zero growth policies introduced by the Club of Rome, the report envisages demoralized and discouraged workers resorting to alcohol and drugs.

The youth of the land will be encouraged by means of rock music and drugs to rebel against the status quo, thus undermining and eventually destroying the family unit.

In this regard, the Committee commissioned Tavistock Institute to prepare a blueprint as to how this could be achieved. Tavistock directed Stanford Research to undertake the work under the direction of Professor Willis Harmon. This work later became known as the "Aquarian Conspiracy". ---Targets of the Illuminati and the Committee of 300 by Dr. John Coleman.

Tavistock, England

--This has been the primary programming centre for England. The Rothschild programmers work out of Tavistock. A large number of slaves in America have been programmed there. Tavistock has been doing mind-control since before WWII Under the supervision of London's W Board & 20 Committee MI6 and MIS's Section BIA ran double agents and mind-controlled spies/couriers during WWII.

MI6 has had an office at Century House, No. 100, Westminster Bridge Road. MI5 offices have been in part on Curzon St. MI5 has operated behind a number of fronts, incl. their fake travel agency Casuro Holidays. MI-5's address for mail is Room 055, The War Office, London.

Special Intelligence Service (SIS) dealt with all types of mind control. Tavistock was under SIS. The British government has had their own telephone exchange with a 222 prefix, which was later linked to another secret exchange YTAN. Outsiders could dial 222 8080 to get into the secret govt. exchange.

The Royal Free Hospital at the University of London works with Tavistock Clinic, as well as the Science Policy Research Unit (SPRU) of Sussex University. A large number of Britain's psychologist, social workers and police get their training at Tavistock. Tavistock has set themselves up as the authority on ritual abuse and MPD (DID). In other words, the primary programming site, is pretending to be the leading institution trying to solve the problem! That's a good cover.

The Illuminati Formula Appendix I: The Programmers

Because of the intensive artillery barrages of World War I, many soldiers were permanently impaired by shell shock. In 1921, the Marquees of Tavistock, 11th Duke of Bedford (Below), gave a building to a group which planned to conduct rehabilitation programs for shell shocked British soldiers. The group took the name of "Tavistock Institute" after its benefactor.

The General Staff of the British Army decided it was crucial that they determine the breaking point of the soldier under combat conditions. The Tavistock Institute was taken over by Sir John Rawlings Reese, head of the British Army Psychological Warfare Bureau.

A cadre of highly trained specialists in psychological warfare was built up in total secrecy. In fifty years, the name "Tavistock Institute' appears only twice in the Index of the New York Times, yet this group, according to LaRouche and other authorities, organized and trained the entire staffs of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), the Strategic Bombing Survey, Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Forces, and other key American military groups during World War II. During World War II, the Tavistock Institute combined with the medical sciences division of the Rockefeller Foundation for esoteric experiments with mind-altering drugs. The present drug culture of the United States is traced in its entirety to this Institute, which supervised the Central Intelligence Agency's training programs.

The "LSD counter culture" originated when Sandoz A. G., a Swiss pharmaceutical house owned by S. G. Warburg & Co., developed a new drug from lysergic acid, called LSD. James Paul Warburg (son of Paul Warburg who had written the Federal Reserve Act in 1910), financed a subsidiary of the Tavistock Institute in the United States called the Institute for Policy Studies, whose director, Marcus Raskin, was appointed to the National Security Council.

James Paul Warburg (Above) set up a CIA program to experiment with LSD on CIA agents, some of whom later committed suicide. This program, MK-Ultra, supervised by Dr. Gottlieb, resulted in huge lawsuits against the United States Government by the families of the victims.

The English Tavistock Institute has not restricted its activities to left-wing groups, but has also directed the programs of such supposedly "conservative" American think tanks as the:

- Herbert Hoover Institute at Stanford University
- Heritage Foundation
- Wharton
- Hudson
- Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- Rand

The "sensitivity training" and "sexual encounter" programs of the most radical California groups such as Esalen Institute and its many imitators were all developed and implemented by Tavistock Institute psychologists.

One of the rare items concerning the Tavistock Institute appears in Business Week, Oct. 26, 1963, with a photograph of its building in the most expensive medical offices area of London.

The story mentions "the Freudian bias" of the Institute, and comments that it is amply financed by British blue-chip corporations, including Unilever, British Petroleum, and Baldwin Steel. According to Business Week, the psychological testing programs and group relations training programs of the Institute were implemented in the United States by the University of Michigan and the University of California, which are hotbeds of radicalism and the drug network.

Woburn Abbey Seat of The Duke of Bedford

It was the Marquees of Tavistock, 12th Duke of Bedford, whom Rudolf Hess flew to England to contact about ending World War II. Tavistock was said to be worth $40 million in 1942. In 1945, his wife committed suicide by taking an overdose of pills.

APPENDIX I - SECRETS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE
By Eustace Mullins

Research into the use of microwave weapons and their use for mind control began in 1950's at the Tavistock Institute, one of Britain's leading psychiatric research establishments. The UK institute was researching into ways of mind controlling the British population without them knowing.

The monkey submission response, whereby the dominant monkey caused submissive behaviour in the underlings, was the brain state of most interest to the British scientists. Having found this specific brain rhythm for docile submissive, zombie-like behaviour, it was then recorded and used as the template for the ELF signal beamed on UK microwave transmitters. Britain was the first discoverer of microwave technology, used for radar, in the 1940's and therefore had a commanding lead over everyone else in this field.

MICROWAVE MIND CONTROL
By Tim Rifat

Tavistock, England--Men like mind-control expert/hypnotist Eric Trist worked for Tavistock. A six-man team which wore black berets also helped w/ mind control at Tavistock.

Two people who became terrorists after their visits to Tavistock are Angela Davis and Stockley Carmichael who went to a conference at Tavistock entitled Dialectics of Liberation in 1967. It's main building is a bland 6-story building. The address is The Training Office, The Tavistock Clinic, 120 Belsize Lane, London, UK NWs SBA. Tel. no. 071-435 7111. The chief exec. is Anton Obholzer. The Chair of Prof. Comm. is Nicholas Temple.

Both are skilled in psychology. The Tavistock Clinic was founded in 1920, and in 1946 the Tavistock Institute was created as an independent body to assist the Tavistock Clinic. The Institute does more of the research. The Royal Free Hospital at the University of London works with Tavistock Clinic, as well as the Science Policy Research Unit (SPRU) of Sussex University. A large number of Britain's psychologist, social workers and police get their training at Tavistock. Tavistock has set themselves up as the authority on ritual abuse and MPD (DID). In other words, the primary programming site, is pretending to be the leading institution trying to solve the problem! That's a good cover.

The End

The Venetian Conspiracy (Part 3) By Webster G. Tarpley, Ph.D

VENETIAN NOMINALISM WENT HAND IN HAND WITH THE MOST VICIOUS AVARICE. In a play written in Venetian dialect by Carlo Goldoni in the eighteenth century, a Pantalone-type miser comes home to find wife and daughter busily engaged in needlework. The two women look up briefly and say hello. The miser flies into a rage screaming "What? You quit working to pay me compliments!"

An eminent witness of this typical Venetian vice was Erasmus of Rotterdam, who was to the years after 1500 what Petrarch had been in his own time: Leader of the Platonic humanist faction. Erasmus came to Venice in 1508, on the eve, interestingly enough, of the attempt to annihilate Venice in the War of the League of Cambrai. Erasmus came to get in touch with Aldo Manunzio, the Aldus who owned what was at that time the largest and most famous publishing house in the world.

Venice had reacted to the invention of moveable-type printing by Johannes Gutenberg of Mainz in a way that foreshadowed the reaction of the British oligarchy in this century to radio, the movies, and television. They had immediately attempted to seize control of the new medium. Dozens of Gutenberg's apprentices from the Rhein-Main area were bought up and brought to Venice, where the production of books up to 1500 and beyond was frequently a multiple of the number of titles published in the rest of the world combined.

Aldus was the William Paley and Jack Warner of the industry. Martin Luther was one of that industry's later creations. Aldus brought out the works of Aristotle in Greek shortly after he began operations in 1495. Plato had to wait for almost twenty years.

One of Erasmus' goals in visiting Venice was to accelerate the publication of Plato. He stayed at the home of Aldus' brother-in-law. Erasmus writes about his Venetian sojourn some time later, in the dialogue titled "Opulentia Sordida" of the Colloquia Familiaria. The Urbs Opulenta referred to is of course the wealthiest of all cities, Venice. Aldus appears as Antronius ("the caveman"), described as a multi- millionaire in today's terms.

Erasmus (above) had been away, and is asked by a friend how he got so skinny. Has he been working as a galley slave? Erasmus replies that he has undergone something far worse: ten months of starvation in the home of Antronius. Here people freeze in the winter because there is no wood to burn.

Wine was a strategic commodity in Erasmus' opinion, as indeed it was in a time when water was often very unsafe to drink. To save money on wine, Antronius took water and faeces annorum decem miscebat (mixed it with ten year old shit), stirring it up so it would look like the real thing. His bread was made not with flour, but with clay, and was so hard it would break even a bear's teeth. A groaning board on the holidays for a houseful of people and servants was centred around three rotten eggs.

There was never meat or fish, but the usual fare was sometimes supplemented by shellfish from a colony that Antronius cultivated in his latrine. When Erasmus consulted a physician, he was told that he was endangering his life by overeating. Erasmus' friend in the dialogue concludes that at this rate, all Germans, Englishmen, Danes, and Poles are about to die. Finally, Erasmus takes his leave, to head for the nearest French restaurant.

Venetian Intelligence

What was the Venetian political intelligence method? The classical Venetian predicament is that of the weaker power attempting to play off two or more major empires. This was the case when the Venetian power was in its very infancy, and survival depended upon playing off the Langobard Kingdom of Italy against the Byzantines. This ploy was later replaced by the attempt to play the Byzantines off against the Carolingian Empire in the West, an attempt that almost misfired when the army of Charlemagne under Pippin laid siege to Venice inside its lagoons. That siege, however, was not successful.

In the eleventh century, the Venetians successfully incited the Norman barons operating out of Sicily under Robert Guiscard (left) to attack Byzantium, and then moved in to offer the desperate Byzantines protection. The price for that protection was indicated by the famous Golden Bull of 1082, a decree of the Byzantine Emperor by which Venice acquired tax customs-free access to the whole of the eastern empire, where the Greeks themselves had to pay a tax of 10 percent on their own transactions. Thus began a hatred for Venice among the Greek population which persists down to the present day.

A Map of The Hapsburg Realms

In the sixteenth century, Venetian strategic doctrine was to play the Ottoman Turks against the Spanish and Austrian Hapsburgs, and then to correct any residual strategic imbalance by playing the Hapsburgs off in their turn against the French. Sometimes Venice attempted to play the Portuguese rival power off against the Dutch. Later this was expanded to include playing the Dutch against the English, and the English against the French.

The Venetians also goaded forces out of the East to attack Christendom. Venice was the manipulator of Saracens, Mongols, and Turks, and got along with the slave-trading factions in each of these groups about as well as a power like Venice could get along with anybody.

In particular, the Venetians were more willing to see territory – excepting Venetian territory – be occupied by the Turks than any other power. Venice was thus the past master of the more exotic permutations of the stolid old British dividi et impera, "divide and conquer."

But the essence of their strategic doctrine was something more abstruse, something sometimes described as the "collapse of empires" scenario. Venice parasitised the decline of much larger states, a decline that Venice itself strove to organize, sometimes in a long and gradual descending curve, but sometimes in a quick bonanza of looting.

Venice was repeatedly confronted with the problem posed by a triumphant enemy, at the height of his power, who would be perfectly capable of crushing the Serenissima in short order. This enemy had to be manipulated into self-destruction, not in any old way, but in the precise and specific way that served the Venetian interest. Does this sound impossible? What is astounding is how often it has succeeded. In fact, it is succeeding in a very real sense in the world today.

Saladin

The most spectacular example of Venetian manipulation of the dumb giants of this world has gone down in history as the Fourth Crusade. At a tournament in the Champagne in 1201, the Duke of Champagne and numerous feudal barons collectively vowed to make a fighting pilgrimage to the sepulchre of Our Lord in Jerusalem. Here they were to reinforce a French garrison hard-pressed by the Turk Saladin. For many of them, this involved penance for certain misdeeds, not the least of which was a plot against their own sovereign liege, the king.

Reaching the Holy Land required transportation, and the French knights sent Geoffrey of Villehardouin to Venice to negotiate a convoy of merchant galleys with an appropriate escort of warships. Geoffrey closed the deal with the Doge Enrico Dandolo, blind and over eighty years old. Dandolo drove a hard bargain: for the convoy with escort to Jerusalem and back, the French knights would have to fork over the sum of 85,000 silver marks, equal to 20,000 kilograms of silver, or about double the yearly income of the King of England or of France at that time.

When 10,000 French knights and infantry gathered on the Lido of Venice in the summer of 1202, it was found that the French, after pawning everything down to the family silver, still owed the Venetians 35,000 marks. The cunning Dandolo proposed that this debt could easily be cancelled if the crusaders would join the Venetians in subjugating Zara, a Christian city in Dalmatia, across the Adriatic from Venice. To this the knights readily agreed, and the feudal army forced the capitulation of Zara, which had been in revolt against Venice.

At this point Dandolo made the crusaders a "geopolitical" proposal, pointing out that the emperor of Byzantium was suspected of being in alliance with the Saracens, and that an advance to the Holy Land would be foolhardy unless this problem were first dealt with. As it happened, the Venetians were supporting a pretender to the Byzantine throne, since the current emperor was seeking to deny them their trading privileges. The pretender was the young Alexios, who promised the knights that if they helped him gain power, he would join them on the crusade with an army of 10,000 Greek soldiers.

Thus, from 1203 to 1204, Constantinople was besieged by the joint Franco-Venetian expeditionary force, which finally succeeded in breaking through the fortifications along the Golden Horn, the bay on the north side of the city.

Byzantium was sacked in an orgy of violence and destruction, from which the Venetians brought back as booty the four bronze horses which generally stand on the Basilica of St. Mark, but which are often exhibited in other cities. Count Baudoin of Flanders was place on the throne of a new concoction titled the Latin Empire of Constantinople.

The doge of Venice received a piece of the action in the form of the title Lord of Three Eighths of the Latin Empire. Venice took over three-eighths of Constantinople, a permanent Venetian colony with its own battle fleet. Lemnos and Gallipoli came into Venetian hands. Crete was annexed, and were Naxos and related islands, and the large island of Euboa, which the Venetians called Negroponte. On the Ionian side, the Venetians appropriated Modon and Koron and several islands up to and including Corfu. All Venetian trading privileges in Greece were restored.

To be Continued

IF THE TRUTH BE KNOWN

CD 127 minutes (listen to Audio Clip on site)
$16.00

Here you will find the ignored story of the massive deportations of the German peoples from Eastern Germany, Poland, the Baltic States, and the Sudetenland and its attendant horrors.

The entire library of many more audio programs is available as a bundle. All told, this is nearly 14 hours of great historical commentary! Plus, you realize a savings of $20 dollars. For full details and to purchase go to the website:—

http://www.untoldtales.net

Eurofolk Radio

Is now on air!

24 hr streaming of items of interest to identity believers including live broadcasts on matters of national interest and much more!!

TUNE IN NOW!

http://eurofolkradio.com/category/general/

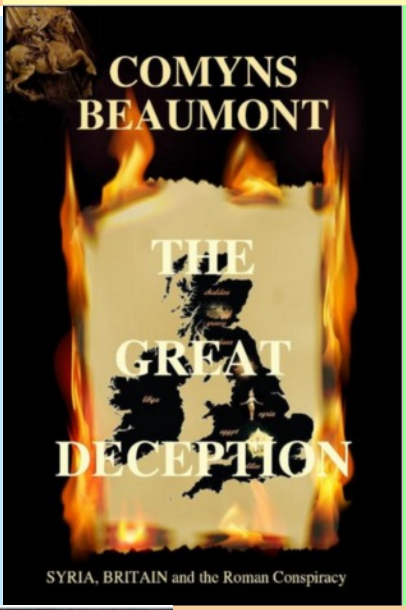

Pastor Eli James
Sundays 16.00 hrs
(British Summer time)

Live on Eurofolk Radio and Eurofolk YouTube - Tune in and join in the chat

http://eurofolkradio.com/category/general/

This long sort after book is now available!

Click on image for details

League Sentinel

A Magazine For Patriots

For further details click HERE

Announcements

In The Name Of Yahwey auf Deutsch - Für weitere Informationen, auf das Bild auf der rechten klicken Sie bitte

www.theflameuk.com

Contact

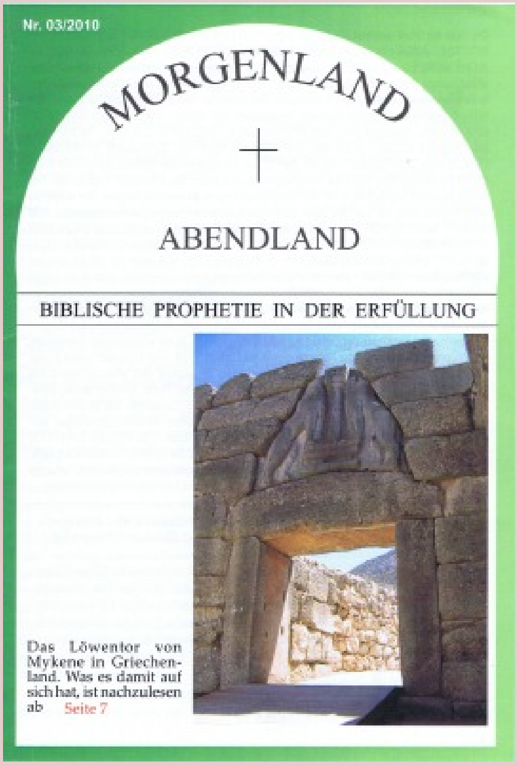

Tel: 07984 775937

E-mail HERE

This website is dedicated to those who have an open mind and question the official Government narratives about COVID19 and the lockdown measures.

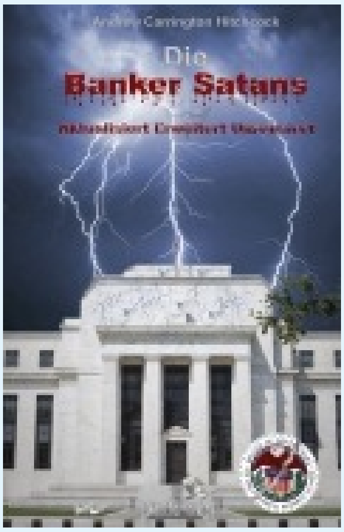

https://judgeforyourself.co.uk

GERMANY'S OWN IDENTITY MAGAZINE

CONTACT

pia-6@t-online.de

Die Banker Satans

Aktualisiert Erweitert Unzensier
von
Carrington Hitchcock, Andrew